CWGC
Commonwealth War Graves Commission

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC) is responsible for maintaining commemorations to world war dead at 8 locations in Ghana. There are a total of 1,831 Commonwealth casualties of the First and Second World Wars commemorated in Ghana. Many are those who served with the Gold Coast Regiment, W.A.F.F., or with Commonwealth air forces engaged in operations in Africa.

Kumasi Memorial

Kumasi, the chief town of the Ashanti region, lies some 275 kilometres inland from Accra. The Kumasi Memorial is located in the middle of Stewart Road, near to the Military Museum and Post Office.

The Gold Coast Regiment, a formation of Artillery and Infantry whose Battle Honours go back to 1873, formed part of the Royal West African Frontier Force. During the First World War, the regiment served with distinction in Togoland (now Togo), in the Cameroons and in the last phase of the East African campaign.

The Kumasi Memorial commemorates 768 men whose graves are unknown or cannot be marked.

Christiansborg War Cemetery

Christiansborg, one of the main suburbs of Accra, is 3 kilometres east of the city centre on the main coast road. Christiansborg War Cemetery is on Castle Road, near the State Building, Accra International Conference Centre and Sports Stadium, and Black Star Square. It is adjacent to Christiansborg Civil Cemetery.

CHRISTIANSBORG WAR CEMETERY was constructed in 1941 and was maintained by the Royal Engineers until taken over by the Commission towards the end of 1949. Graves from the following cemeteries have since been brought into this cemetery :

- Takoradi African Public Cemetery - 82 burials.
- Tamale African Cemetery - 43 burials.
- Tamale European Cemetery - 5 burials.

There are now 416 Commonwealth burials of the Second World War in Christianborg War Cemetery, one of them unidentified.

The CHRISTIANSBORG MEMORIAL, which forms the entrance to the cemetery, commemorates 451 men of Gold Coast enlistment who died in West African territory during the Second World War, and whose graves are unknown or are so situated that permanent maintenance is not possible.

Ghanaian casualties

The CWGC commemorate 2247 individuals who died while serving with a regiment associated with Ghana:

- Gold Coast Regiment R.W.A.F.F – 1375 individuals
- Gold Coast Regiment W.A.F.F. – 868
- Gold Coast Naval Volunteer Force – 3
- Gold Coast Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve - 1

The majority of these individuals are commemorated in memorials and cemeteries in Ghana. The largest numbers of Ghanaian casualties commemorated outside of Ghana itself can be found at the following sites:

- RANGOON MEMORIAL, Myanmar – 464 individuals
- EAST AFRICA MEMORIAL, Kenya - 111
- KIRKEE WAR CEMETERY, India - 46
- DAR ES SALAAM WAR CEMETERY, Tanzania – 44

In addition to the above, there are also 18 individuals recorded as being from, or with family connections to, Ghana, commemorated in five different countries worldwide, including France, South Africa, Tanzania, Thailand and the United Kingdom. They are listed in our records with a connection to

'Gold Coast', 'Accra' or 'British West Africa'.

In total, Ghanaian casualties from the First and Second World War can be found buried or commemorated on memorials in 18 countries around the world.
